Things which happen, happen for good

Once upon a time, a king lost his finger in a fierce storm.

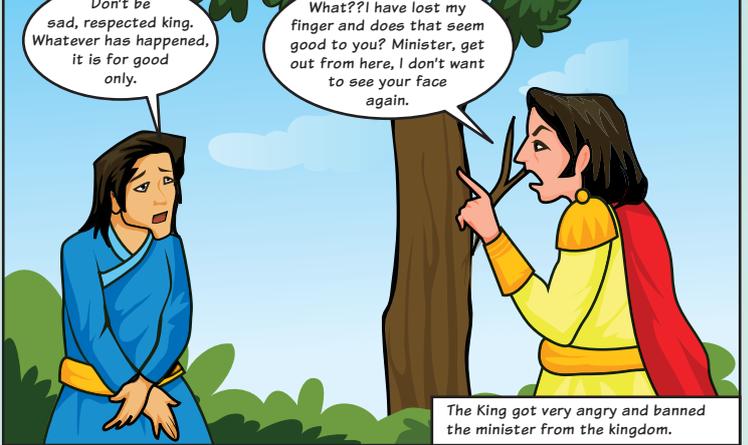

Alas!!
I have lost my finger.

The King's wise minister was very sympathetic and practical at the same time.

Don't be sad, respected king.
Whatever has happened,
it is for good
only.

What??! I have lost my finger and does that seem good to you? Minister, get out from here, I don't want to see your face
again.

The King got very angry and banned
the minister from the kingdom.

A few days later, the king, along with his council, went for hunting in a jungle.

Suddenly, a band of robbers arrived and tied them up to take away their belongings and ultimately to kill them.

Hey king,
get ready for death!!
We'll kill you all.
Ha, ha ha!!!

The leader of the robber got a bit scared when he found that the king had nine fingers instead of normal ten. So he let the king go.

You have just nine fingers? It is a bad omen. Go, go, get away soon, we
won't kill you.

My lost
finger saved my life.

Now I realise whatever the minister had said was perfectly right. I could not understand his words
then. I will call him back right today.

Things which happen, happen for good

Every mistake provides a learning opportunity. If you make a wrong investment decision in the past, instead of repenting on your move, try to learn from it and avoid making such a mistake in the future. Just like the lost finger saved the life of the king, similarly your wrong investments, which might have resulted in loss of money, will make you experienced in the long run so that you do not make similar decisions again.
